

SPIRIT 'BEING'

What do we mean when we speak of the Fatherhood of God. This can take many forms in the life of mankind. To me it is not only our Spiritual Father the Spirit that encompasses All That Is. It is also symbolic of those who are sent into our lifetime whose journey it is to give us guidance, to teach us and help us to find our Truth. The Truth of what we truly are and the role we are to play in this lifetime. We are given the experiences of love, mentorship and guidance and opportunities to grow to understand who we are. In our early years we are guided on how to walk, talk, read and interact with one another. There are times of "tough love" and hard lessons placed before us and we can wonder why we are sent so many challenges and can feel so alone. It is at these times our inner spirit will seek answers which will come at the right moment if we keep our belief and trust within. We may cry out for help and it is our spiritual father who hears this inner voice when we want to know "why me?". Often answers are given by our companions in this existence who are part of mankind; but what is mankind? Why are we here and what are we meant to achieve? The Spirit comes into existence with a spiritual guide by their side. We are not always aware of this special person in our life but may discover as time moves on that they are someone who helps us in times of trial, sadness or difficulty. What a wondrous gift sent by our spiritual Father to help us tend to our journey which we chose before coming to Earth. How many of us think about our companion who remains with us, encouraging us to seek the Divine spark we hold within? If only we can bridge the connection and allow that flow of knowledge to come to us more often, then we would truly understand what we are doing in the existence we are residing in at present. We have chosen this moment to be in the body along with many other humans "Being" here on the Earth. How wonderful it is that Emma Hardinge Britton channelled our 7 Principles to guide us and help us understand how we should conduct ourselves whilst we are here in this lifetime. I find it comforting to know that all of us are the same. We are all spirit energies part of one Family existing in the same time line and we chose the moment to be part of the collective consciousness which exists in the here and the now. If only mankind in its entirety could see and sense this oneness and understand the enormity of the collective energy which is available to help this Earth on which we live. The possibilities are endless if only we as humans "Being" would reach and touch that part of our spirit which is the Divine Spirit, our world would undergo a dramatic change if we started to work on this level of consciousness. For in this state only Love and Peace could exist, there would be no room for hatred, envy and jealousy. Ego would wither and die and all mankind would be in a state of harmlessness. By its very nature this pure state would have no room to accommodate the negative emotions which exist in the present time zone we are in. Imagine a place where hunger, thirst and lack are things of the past. It does seem quite a stretch of the imagination but if we truly follow the Principles given then there should be no place in our hearts for anything but Unconditional Love for one another and a desire to share all that is available on our Earth with everyone. It is an important factor therefore that we start to seek clearer communication with those who have gone before and attune ourselves to the vibrations of the Spirit World where those from the levels of teachings and philosophy are waiting to help and support us with the Wisdom of the Ages. There is much for mankind to know and understand. However, once we are in Creation it is harder for many of us to access this knowledge, so by indicating to those who work with us on a spiritual level our willingness to grow and develop we can begin to fine tune to the appropriate vibration. It is our responsibility to work as we have promised to by being true 'Caretakers' of this planet on which we live. Once we decide to be proactive the doors open and the process of communication follows. We are part of a network, a type of spiders web of energy whilst we reside in the diving suit we call the human body.

Have you ever wondered why the internet is called the web? Could it be that this is a 'hidden message' from the world of spirit to remind us of what we really are and how we can connect without the need of the spoken word? I feel the web was created by spirit inspiring us to bring about communication across our globe, keeping us in touch on a physical level. At times this is both constructive and destructive as mankind again has become materialistic and caught up in its own sense of power over others. As we become aware of the negative side we begin to see how power can be misused encouraging the more responsible members of society to set about making changes for the better. Yet if we look more on a spiritual level we will see the true web is ourselves, spirit in Creation, linked entirely through our true energies, feeling, sensing and being part of the whole. Because of this very nature the web, like a spider's construction, connects all spiritual energies who will feel the wave of vibrations, along the web's threads. These threads comprise of the energies channelled across the World created by living thought patterns and the energy we transmit from within. It is infinite and at varying levels. So imagine if something so traumatic, on a colossal scale occurred across the World, then at various levels of vibration, depending on our awareness, the spirits in Creation will feel this. That is where fear can creep in because on a deeper level some may sense this, manifesting this energy and we may end up being drawn into a global sense of fear, not really knowing or understanding why. However, let's not forget the wonderful power of Love, Peace and yes, Laughter; these energies are also transmitted across the web. Therefore we should work towards developing the sensitivity to the power of Love and Peace, to bring about the expansion of these vibrations and transmit them onwards throughout the web. Think of it, how often do you feel a sense of upliftment when, say, a child is born or a feeling of calm when you sit in the quiet on your own and put the thoughts of daily living to the back of the mind. These are the strong and powerful levels of vibration which we should endeavour to experience, share and aim to send out along the web as often as we can. Laughter is a fantastic bringer of joy as well as a sense of belonging as we share the funnier, lighter moments in our lives. This is a great gift which can be given to the masses by those who hold the talents within. You see, we all have something to bring to the World and it is up to us to work hard to identify this aspect which we can share with our fellow man. No matter what we do in life there are always consequences, some of these can have detrimental effects on the lives of those around us, other actions can give our fellow man something which changes their life forever in a wonderful way. For instance, where would we be without the creation of penicillin? If this had not come into being then man would have continued to succumb to many diseases. So we all have a responsibility to each other, to be there in times of need or act as a listening ear or to give of ourselves for the benefit of others. Perhaps we are meant to be so in tune that we are inspired to create medication, create a charitable organisation or simply give a message from the spirit world that bathes the heart in love giving comfort at a time of great loss and sadness. Whatever it is there will be changes taking place as a result of the event. We should remember we are children of God who have been given an opportunity to live an earthly life where we are meant to discover, develop and share for the benefit of not only our own spiritual growth but also that of our sisters and brothers in Creation. We know the consequences if we hurt one another or act in such a way to cause harm. As we are responsible for our conduct so shall we reflect upon all our thoughts, words and deeds during our lifetime when it is time for us to move into transition and re-join the spiritual world. It is not an easy path to enter a human form; we become bogged down in the heavy materialism created by others who have been here before us. This is yet another facet of our personal responsibility as we are part of this section of the jigsaw of life and should understand what man creates is inherited by the children and so the cycle goes on. We must watch what we choose to create in the material as it could affect future generations in a wonderful way as with the discovery of penicillin or, cause pain and suffering as with, for example, the splitting of the atom bringing about man's creation of a weapon of mass destruction. We are given many challenges in life, but we also have many choices to make continually throughout our time here. We know we judge ourselves at the time we leave our earthly existence and move back to our spiritual source and yet man still makes mistakes, hurts others and at times seeks to control his brothers and sisters for his own ends. This emanates not only from rulers of countries but also through many levels of governance, down to parents and guardians of children, even managers at work or tutors, all of these people can severely affect the progress and lives of those in their care by their actions and words. We forget when it comes time for judging our lives we will be the one reviewing it and we will be the harshest judge of all – it will be our true spiritual energy undertaking this task, not the conscious mind we are used to experiencing in the body, the one clouded by daily living and affected greatly by the materialistic world. Our spiritual energy is everlasting and survives the physical body. Our diving suit was never meant to last forever and there are times I wonder whether man's knowledge and thirst for understanding of diseases as well as the degeneration of the physical body has resulted in our lives existing far beyond the intended lifespan. Alternatively, it could be that our lives would be less affected by dis-ease and deterioration if we stayed true to earliest days of man on Earth. We ate and drank from the fruits of the Earth as nature intended. No pollution (man's creation), no man made products containing chemicals and additives not meant for consumption by the human body. Perhaps it is time to consider what we put into our spiritual vessel and care what we give it for sustenance so we can start to truly live as we were meant to, at one with the World and putting back what we receive instead of taking and destroying our Earth's provisions. If we can give respect to ourselves then we will be respectful to all that surrounds us. If we love ourselves, in turn the energy of love will enfold those we come into contact with. If we live in Peace and Harmony then others will bathe in the energy that emanates from within. What a beautiful spirit would be held within and rise up at the moment of transition knowing they have done the best they could whilst they were part of this time.
